Transfer Credit Policy for Legal Specialty Designated Courses:

A legal specialty course is one that (1) covers substantive law or legal procedures or process, (2) has been developed for paralegals, and (3) emphasizes practical paralegal skills. Transfer credit specific criteria follows:

- Each legal specialty course submitted for consideration for AUM Legal Studies transfer credit is evaluated by the program director. Determination of transferability is based upon course content, hours of instruction, method of course delivery, the grade earned in the course by the student, and whether the course was completed at an ABA-approved program as a legal specialty designated course. For all courses considered, director will review the student's transcript, the catalog descriptions of the courses, the program's website materials, and ABA status. Additionally, for courses completed at a program not ABA-approved, course materials, a written examination, or an oral examination may be required in order to determine whether the student is competent in the area of study and whether the courses considered are deemed appropriate for transfer credit as legal specialty courses.

- Credit from non-regionally-accredited institutions will not be considered for transfer to Legal Studies programs for legal specialty credit.
- No legal specialty course credit is awarded for experience and examination.
- The maximum number of legal specialty credits allowed for legal specialty course transfer credit to the program shall not exceed six semester hours from programs not ABA-approved.
- Legal specialty credit from ABA-approved programs will be evaluated by the program director for acceptance for credit. Students transferring from ABA-approved programs must earn a minimum of nine (9) semester hours of legal specialty credit at AUM.
